Darling-Mine: —

Eat me up! — Why, Joe you are a regular man-eating shark! I'm "skared" of you — I am — and only because I wrote you a letter! — Oh dear! — Joe — I love you so much! And that Shittown obstinate May will never, never come. I want to see you so much and so badly! As for my kisses, — Joe, — consider yourself kissed as often and when ever you choose. But when that May day does come around, you can bet, dispensary isn't open early enough. I thought to myself "Well, you'll have to wait until I come - cause" I sure must wait for Joe every morning — and so she will — my sweetheart's first!

I smile every time I think of your following a girl out in Texas simply because she wore a dress similar to mine! I smile because so often the same trick has been played on me. I see someone, who, judging from his back view must positively resemble my Joe — I know it can't be, yet, I feel it might, and oh! what a disappointment! men dress a great deal alike so you can imagine how often I have been fooled there'll be a big, big kiss, Joe, - not a little one, to greet you.

I have read your charmingly wonderful letter a thousand and one times and each time it becomes sweeter and dearer. To-day there came two letters for me - yesterday's as I thought, was delayed. As I wrote yesterday - your sunday letter was delivered Tuesday. Although it makes me a little late, I have been waiting for the carrier each morning; in fact go a half block out your way - and to-day one of the nurses hunted that she can't get her chicken stocked up by mine, because the

this very friend of yours must be a scream — I burst out into a beauty laugh — right in the car when I read of his standing up for his share or rather shares! How did you enjoy it? How long did it last? I wish I could have seen you too! Joe I'll tell you what I think of this "fool Goldberger." He's jealous of you! That's all — and he's not clever enough to conceal it. As for his sister probably the same can be said of her. I should advise you to have as little as possible to do with them. And don't let it worry you; — it things look bad — just drop the matter of the $15 — if that's the amount of mischief in him. In any case — don't worry — understand? Here are all the kisses and hugs you were dreaming about — and thousands extra.

Your loving Frances.
